They are also looking at creating some kind of an exercise program geared at the teens. The commission suggested they hold a community information night to see if there are any members in the community who may have some ideas on how to get this started. One idea brought up was to offer different kinds of work out videos and possibly there would be people in the community who would have old ones they would want to donate. If we get the parents and the community involved there will be a bigger chance of the teens joining and staying with it.
